It must be disheartening to believers in the new evangel of progress to discover that a model democratic republic can exhibit as cynical a disregard for treaty obligations as could be displayed by the most corrupt of the old world monarchies; but those who disbelieve in international understandings will admit that America is only acting in regard to Panama as any other nation would act in her place. Where Blaine is wrong is in his assumption that the United States are doing in Panama what England has done in Suez. The Guiteau Case-Plaster Cast of the Assassin's Head.

WASHINGTON, December 18th—The proceedings in the Guiteau trial will very probably come to a standstill for several days, in consequence of the serious illness of the wife of Juror Hobbs. At a late hour to-night the lady was reported to be very low, and not expected to live through the night. A plaster cast was made to day of Guiteau's head by Clark Mills, assisted by his son, Theodore Mills. After some hesitation, the assassin consented to have his beard removed, and then allowed the cast to be made. After the operation Guiteau express himself highly gratified with the result.

DUBLIX, December 18th.—A quantity of arms and ammunition was discovered early this morning in a house on Brabazon street. Four persons were arrested, and the articles seized. They comprised eight hand-granades, two parcels of dynamite, each parcel being in a case resembling a box of rifle cartridges, but larger; twenty six Enfield breechloading rifles, six revolvers, 5,000 rifle cartridges, but larger; twenty six Enfield breechloading rifles, six revolvers, 5,000 rifle cartridges, 500 revolver cartridges and twenty-eight pounds of gunpower, with a list of names of officers belonging to some organization. Two brothers named Whelans and a man named Ryan were arrested. The Whelans kept a marine store. The accused were arrested on private information. The documents seized were of an old date, and had reference to the Fenian organization of 1867. Discovery is believed to be closely connected with the Bradford affair, for which Toby was arrested. The papers found implicate a number of persons on both sides of the channel. There is no doubt that the material is associated with the Fenians.

COWBOYS IN KANSAS.

They Take Possession of a Town-Several Lives Lost. [By Telegraph.]

Wellington (Kansas), December 17th.—About the middle of this forenoon, the Mayor of Caldwell, who was in the city, and one of the committee who was in the city, and one of the committee engaged in settling up the Danford business, received a dispatch from the City Marshal of Cald-well, stating that a mob of cowboys had the town corraled, and that the efficers were powerless to suppress the trouble. The Mayor immediately replied with an order for the Marshal to call out the citizens, and immediately suppress all rioting and arrest the participants; and he also called upon the Sheriff who organized a posse, and took a train for arrest the participants; and he also called upon the Sheriff, who organized a posse, and took a train for the scene of the trouble. It seems that the trouble had been brewing since last night, and grew out of ill feeling engendered at a gambling place. This morning a cowboy was arrested for disturbance, and fined and ordered committed. His friends swore that he should not be taken to jail, and in rescuing him the firing began. It was kept up for an hour or two between officers and citizens and the cowboys. There were at first six cowboys and one Dave Spear, a young fellow connected with a dancehouse and saloon of Caldwell, engaged against the officers. Three or four hundred shots were fired during the melee. Mike Meagher, ex-Mayor of the city, who was assisting the officers, was shot through the heart and killed. The only words he spoke after being shot were, "Tell my wife I've got it at last." cheeks as she said, "Oh! Charlie, I am sorry to find you in this condition."

"Oh, don't mind that," said the prisoner, calmly; "I am sorry that the whelp (evidently referring to District Attorney Corkhill) brought you here; but he was disappointed in his purpose. I did nothing, you see, to embarrass you."

"I have called to say good by, Charlie," Mrs. Dunmire responded, evidently desirous of ending the interview, "for I may never see you again," and then, weeping, she held out her hand, as if to say farewell.

Guiteau was not satisfied, however, to stop the interview there, and, as if to prolong it, turned toward the lady's little girl and asked how old she was, adding, as a peculiar look passed over his face and his thin lips twitched nervously, "Anna, I can wish you no harm. I hope your life may be as prosperous as happy."

Mr. Dunmire, who had been a silent spectator all that time, then walked over to Guiteau and said, "Guiteau, I must bid you farewell also. We may never meet again."

Guiteau took the proffered hand, but turned his head away, and it was evident that he was impressed with the truth of his visitor's remarks.

Without waiting for a reply Mr. Dunmire added, "We say good-by now, for I hope we will be off to Leadville again by Mondsy. It is too close around here for me."

GUITEAU'S DEFENSE.

The Assassin Makes a Statement to the Public. (By Telegraph.) NEW YORK, December 18th .- The Star prints the ollowing written statement from Guiteau:
To the National Associated Press: I have been ested to review my trial and give my opinion of nen who are doing it. In general I am wel-sed with the trial, especially with the Court and Judge Cox I consider the man for this case. piers. Judge Cox I consider the man for this case. He is able, conscientious and careful, and is disposed to give wide latitude to all parties. I think he believes in my idea of inspiration, and he is a high-toued churchman, and, therefore, is disposed to do absolute justice to the Deity and myself. Without the Deity's pressure the President never would have been removed. The pressure destroyed my free agency. The Deity compelled me to do the act, just as a highwayman compels a man to give him money after placing a pistol at his victim's head. The victim may know it is absolutely wrong for him to give the money that his wife and children need, but how can he keep it with a pistol at his head? This irresistible pressure to remove the President was upon me for thirty days, and it never left me when awake. It haunted me day and night. At last an opportunity came, and I shot him in the Baltimore and Potomac depot. I would not do it again for a million dollars. Only a miracle saved me from being shot there and then.

THE ASSASSIN'S INSPIRATION.

THE ASSASSIN'S INSPIRATION. It was the most insane, foolbardy act possible and no one in his right mind could have done it, by and no one in his right mind could have done it, but the pressure on me was so enformous that I would have done it if I had died the next moment. I had no power to prevent it. The President was surrounded by his Cabinet and personal friends, and 200 or 300 people who were in the depot. No one but a madman would think of assaulting him under such circumstances. If I had not been instantly hurried away by the police I would have been shot or hanged in five minutes. The Lord protected me then, as He has on three other occasions since July 2d, when I have been assaulted. The gradual way the Deity removed the President is a confirmation of TAFFY FOR THE JURY. I have an unusually bright jury and I wish them o pass on my case. I judge they are honest, conscientious and careful. They listen with the greatest interest to the testimony and addresses and are as interested the testimony and addresses and no doubt they will give this case their most solemn attention and dispose of it according to the facts and the law, and I presume that the high-toned, conscientious press of the nation will acquiesce in their verdict. Mr. Corkhill has introduced certain witnesses who are guilty of rank perjury. Some of them I have known nothing of for years, and cree nothing about. Their pripry has been so manifest and wicked that it has excited my wrath and I have denounced them in plain language. I shall also show their iniquity in re' uttal by my testimony and that of others. I have denounced the District Attorney for the mean, deceptive way he has conducted the presention. My opinion of him is well known, and I decline to notice him here. Mr. Davidge is supposed to be a high-toned lawyer and a fine gent tempa and I am well released with his after gent tempa and I am well released with his Davige is supposed to be a night-toned lawyer and a fine gentieman and I am well pleased with his connection with the case. DISPATCHES OF SATURDAY AND SUNDAY.

CALIFORNIA

Bruial Marder in Tuolumne County.

Sonora, December 17th.—Wm. Bergel, who has for years kept a drinking house at the crossing of Sullivan's creek, on the Mountain road, about two miles from this place, was murdered last night, apparently with great brutality. Frank P. Gilkey, a neighbor of Bergel's, stopped at the house to-day at about 1 o'clock, and finding everything closed up, became suspicious that something was wrong, and began a search, which resulted in the finding of Bergel's body in the rear of the house, at the edge of the creek, among the bowlders, with his arms closely pinioned behind his back, a rope drawn around his throat, and a sheet thrown over his head. Closer inspection disclosed a knife-wound upon the right side of the neck, extending through a jugular vein, from which a great deal of blood had flowed; a wound in the left ear, presumably made by a pistol bullet, and his face battered out of shape by heavy blows with a club or similar weapon. Mr. Gilkey at once notified Deputy Sherif McQuade, who proveded to the premises with the Coroner. From their investigation it is learned that there was evidence in the house of some disturbance the night before as of a drinking party. No sign of violence, however, was discovered within doors. It is supposed that Mr. Bergel was induced to drink, then led to the rear of the house and there murdered. Robbery was the probable motive, as no money was found in the house, and the victim was known to have had some eash. An empty eigar box was found open near the body, which is said to have been used by him as a cash box. Bergel was a large and powerful man, and it is presumable that two or more men must have been associated in the murder. No clew has yet been obtained of the perpetrators. SPECIAL PROVIDENCE, OR WHAT?

In our issue of Saturday we published a and this old barn caught fire and was on the evening before the fire the turkeys "for the first time deserted the barn, and "at roosting time voluntarily chose a "perch near the house." The question is, how did these turkeys know that the barn was going to be burned? The easiest way out of the puzzle would no doubt be to deny the truth of the story. But it is certified to us by two highly respectable and to be the district school teacher. It is quite evident from the facts that the turkeys had received warning of the danger that impended, and equally clear that they considered this warning trustworthy. Now turkeys, a number of children had been accustomed to sleep in the barn; and suppose that on the evening before the fire these children had been impelled mysteriously to choose another sleeping-place; how would the episode have been characterized? Beyond question it would have been called a "special Providence." And if it would have been called a special Providence in the case of children, how can it be anything less than a special Providence in the case of the turkeys? That animals and fowls may be the subjects of special Provisome quarters, for at a religious meeting in San Francisco last week a preacher told a story of how on one occasion he had been rewarded for keeping the Sabbath by being enabled to steal an egg, the layer of which egg, a brown hen, had walked into his room and there deposited it. This preacher believed that the brown hen had the air play any part in special Providences of the conventional type, they merely minister to some devout Christian, saved their own lives. The question obtained it in a perfectly natural way, as we suppose most of our readers will condence hypothesis as applied to Man? The cisely as men do, has been evaded by the what "reason" very often fails to do for human beings. But to say that such a proceeding on the part of an animal is the effect of instinct, does not explain the proceeding; and when the latter, as in the the instinct theory lands us in a predicament, for it compels us to admit that what we call instinct may be a much higher deis attained by what we call reason. The night, but the turkeys knew it. And the question is, Where did they get their ir-tion of his inspiration theory: a theory which we presume nebody any longer gives him credit for ever having believed. The man is of a very inferior order of mind, and very probably partially insane. We do not think that a completely sane mind would be capable of the egotism which is plainly the master-passion of Guiteau's life. That he is perfectly responsible, however, we have never had the slightest doubt, and his latest production is well calculated to confirm this belief, for it is not in any sense the composition of an irresponsible lunatic.

CARINET MAKING

So far as he has proceeded, President Arthur appears to have exercised sound judgment in the selection of Cabinet officers. It is remarked that none of the men he has chosen have Presidential ambitions, and while it would certainly not be justifiable to choose men for such a reason alone, there can be no doubt that this exclusion of paramount individual aspirations must tend to give greater harmony and homthe head of a department is thinking continually of the effect of his conduct upon that lies under his hand, the probability is that the Administration will reflect faith-

Why General Beale should be offered the Navy Department we do not know, unless it is in recognition of that mysterious custom which seems always to select for this office some one profoundly ignorant of all nautical matters. There seems indeed to be something in both English and American governmental traditions which makes it the proper thing to place the control of the navy in the least competent hands. There has been put into Indian canyon from the fowa Hill. Some of them I measured last month. A large amount of the 13,552,000 cubic yards. The blue gravel at the Morning Star is about eighty feet deep. I have measured the pits of all the mines at lowa Hill. Some of them I measured last month. A large amount of the 13,552,000 cubic yards of material dumped into Canyon creek remains in the canyon. There is one mile of the canyon where the filling

A.—I do not know the extent of deposits in the Sacramento river. The natural washings bring down material in every stream. The country is not thickly timbered. The underbrush is principally the gravel beds around Folsom there is some quartz gravel. The new claim I spoke of is Willams' claim, in block 11, of the town of Folsom. The depth from the surface to the bedrock is thirty-one feet, and from there to the river is seventy feet. He requires 250 mehes of water there, and has been using that amount when he washes. He averages five days in the week washings—mostly six days. I have noticed the Texas Hill diggings. There is an area of about 125 acres washed off there. It is covered with cobblestones. Those washings were from a depth of 5 to 25 feet. The open cuts are visible to any one passing there. On the opposite side of the river are very step, high bluffs; cannot say how high. The average of the washings at the Texas Hill diggings would be 9 or 10 feet deep There has been mining carried on there during the past five years—two claims running, using 100 inches. They are drift mines. They use about 100 inches whenever they have a pile of dirt drifted out to wash. There has been a little mining this summer near Ward's ravine. There are two tunnels under the railroad at Rigney's claim, between Folsom and Alder creek. He discharges his material through both tunnels into the American river. The extent of ground worked in these claims is ten or twelve acres. He uses 125 inches of water two days and a half in the week. At Pennsylvania Flat there has been about thirty acres washed to the depth of 14 feet on an average. Tait's Flat has and a half in the week. At Pennsylvania Flat there has been about thirty acres washed to the depth of 14 feet on an average. Tait's Flat has been mined off about sixty acres to an average depth of 16 feet. Their tail ngs went directly into the American river. There has been some mining at Tait's and Pennsylvania Flat since I have been there. When they have been running they used 200 inches of water. At present there are Chinamen rocking in the old claims. At Willow Springs Hill the washings were very deep—from 30 to 50 feet. The tailings go into the Willow creek. They mostly stay in the claim. The muddy water goes through the creek to the river. The floods wash the creek out to the American river to a considerable extent. The flood will t ke the tailings and deposit them further down the creek. Alder creek, from Prairie City to the mouth, is a great deal larger than Willow further down the creek. Alder creek, from Prairie City to the mouth, is a great deal larger than Willow creek, and the mining there has been much more extensive. Fhe floods take a great deal of the tailings out of Alder creek. Then others come in their place. As soon as the violence of the flood ceases the bed fills in again with other tailings. More or less of the tailings go into the American river. The banks of Alder creek are mostly bluffs. I know of some of the old reservoirs in that vicentity. We made one dry and cut the bank down last year. That was eighteen acres. We are plowing it now for a vineyard. The soil is a deposit made with second water that has been used for mining. That decosit on the bank at the end of the reservoir is five feet deep. It is 800 feet long; begins at nothing and runs up to five the end of the reservoir is five feet deep. It is 800 feet long; begins at nothing and runs up to five feet. The deposit is very fine. I have seen slickens at Alder creek. It is not that character of deposit. It is good soil. It is good sediment. It is the best qualities of the soil that is retained there. We call it sediment. It is clay and sand. At Ward's ravine there used to be a reservoir. The bank of the reservoir is still there. That is filled with sediment and is cultivated as a grass field—common grass. When I first came here there was about 40 acres south of our plum orchard that was very wet and ha'h I s in it. We turned in sediment and tailings f'm the m'ne and left it for one year, and then planted an orchard on it. The bank in the mine was a good deal like Chris. Lewson's, only that the soil was deeper. The orchard did not do very well, decause it is too low there. Apricots and peaches were planted on it. They suffer a great deal by the frost, because it was low and there was no draft. The trees that lived do fine. The plum trees all do first-class, but the peach and apricot trees cannot s and the frost. The trees grow thrifty, and would do well except for the frost.

Cross-examined (by Mr. Hart)—The most of the do well except for the frost.

Cross-examined (by Mr. Hart)—The most of the mining at Lawson's claim was done before I came there, five years ago. I do not know how long they have been mining there. Most of the mining at Red Banks was done before I went there. The same at McDowell's Hill and all the rest of the claim at McDowell's Hill and all the rest of the claims I have mentioned. The creeks clean out largely each winter. The water passing Folsom contains con siderable sand. I do not know that there is sediment in the river. Do not think an orchard would grow in the sand deposited along the river. It is sediment that we deposit in our reservoirs where we plant orchards. I noticed the washing out of Willow creek, particularly in the past two years, because it changes its course, and two years ago carried off about ten or twenty acres of our land there.

The Lawson mine is about 1,000 feet above the bridge. It is in the town, and occupies about four blocks. The average depth of the material that is washed in that claim is about 47 feet. Lawson uses water from his own reservoir. We sel him thirty inches, and he stores it in his reservoir, and when he works he uses 250 inches. The mine is 306 feet higher than the river. The tailings deposited in rivers in the summer are all washed out in the winter time. This mine is about half way between the Devil's Elbow summer are an washed out in the winter time. The Interior Department has officially notified the people of St. Paul, Kodiac Island, off Alaska, that it is compelled to refuse to furnish them with medicines, which they have formally politioned for, because of a lack of funds. because of a lack of funds.

A reward of £1,200 is offered for the conviction of the thieves who stole the registered letters contan-ing diamonds from the Hatton Garden Postoffice, in London, and free pardon to any one of them giving information against his accomplices. A fire at 14, 16 and 18 Grosby street, N. Y., Saturday night, caused a loss of $250,000 to H. E. Wallace, fancy goods, and $50,000 to Desser Bros. & Co., clothiers. The building was demaged $25,000. All the losses were covered by insurance.

Letters from Mrs. Abraham Lincoln to her friends in Springfield, Ill., convey the sad news that the af-flicted lady has completely lost the use of her eye-sight. She is unable to write, and her letters are written at dictation by an attendant. It is said the precautions against fire ordered by he authorities in the Theatre Francaise at Paris will involve the closing of that theater for a month. The Theater de Jazet is a wooden building, and will not be reopened unless entirely reconstructed day evening, that the bodies of three Mexicans were found harging to a tree on the Bandero road, northwest of there. They are supposed to be three men who have been robbing travelers the past week in that section, and are thought to have been hanged by German farmers of the section referred to. At Harbor Springs, Mich., Saturday, August Alerts had been making shingles, and left a pile of havings in the house he occupied and where he did is work. While himself and wife were temporarily beent from the house, the two children, aged 4 and year, respectively, in some way set fire to the havings, and were burned to death, and the house

A report was received at San Antonio, Tex., Satu

The official report on the Ring Theater disaster at Vienna says that the Chief Engineer asked two policemen at the main entrance of the theater whether there was anybody within, and received the reply that the whole audience left safely. This statement was apparently confirmed by the fact that no persons were seen at the entrances of the building. Men of the Fire Brigade subsequently made their way to the galleries, but the air was suffocating, and it was impossible to penetrate the passages as the torches went out for want of oxygen, and the firemen were unable to breathe. The report expresses the conviction that the audience died speedily from suffocation.

known Auction House of MESSRS. NEW-HALL & Co., San Francisco, and they were sold for CASH-not long-time notes or charged on the ledger: but the ready TWENTY BOLLAR PIECES were thrown over their counter with a jingle and the goods delivered, with bill receipted. And as I have said and did say February 2, 1874, that I would do something that was never done on this coast, which was-"MARK MY GOODS IN PLAIN BOLD F GURES," and never deviate from the price marked. I was laughed at at the time by all dealers; but time proved my suc cess, as others began to fellow, and it was appreciated by all purchasers of goods Since then I connected the Trade Union with it, which is a great saving to all people with families. The TRADE UNION will be kept up, and new members solicited. In JUNE, 1882, I shall send ou Agents to canvass for this new method of doing business, with BOOKS to fally explain the running of it.
